Trecked In Highway Jam

According to F. G. Forrest, a resident of San Francisco, an unusual accident occurred when it was wrecked on the highway near Belmont. The truck, which was wrecked, was a 1927 model belonging to the company of 2723 California street, San Francisco.

It was a report of Traffic Officer Riley, who investigated the accident, that the truck was on the hill north of the city. Evidently another car had just a Forest's car of the trailer and the truck was on the hill north of the city. The accident occurred on the hill north of the city. The accident occurred on the hill north of the city.

Pioneer Man Laid to Rest

Charles Kreiss, well-known resident of this city, and a member of a pioneer family of this county, passed away at his home on Shasta street Saturday following a brief illness. He was 69 years of age, and had resided in Redwood City for 61 years.

Kreiss conducted the first soda water bottling plant in Redwood City. His father, Michael Kreiss, was the founder of the Kreiss Brewery, just south of Five Points, one of the first breweries in the county. This was later run by his son. Later he conducted and owned the Woodside Inn at Woodside, which he later sold to J. V. Neuman. He was a man of exemplary habits and of unusual robust build. In spite of his years he until quite recently made a practice of taking a ten or twelve mile walk through Woodside and the Canyada every day.

Surviving the deceased are his widow, Mrs. Mary Kreiss, three daughters, Mrs. Josie Weibel of Oakland, Mrs. Ruby Saunders of this city, and Mrs. Lavina Pence of Los Angeles. A son, Glenn Kreiss, passed away several years ago. Fred Kreiss of this city, is a brother, and the following sisters also survive: Mrs. Minnie Barnes of Phoenix, Arizona, Mrs. Carrie Davis of Palo Alto, Mrs. Emma Carroll and Mrs. Tillie Durham of San Francisco and Mrs. Adelaide Reinhardt of Palo Alto.

Funeral services were held Monday at the parlors of the James Crowe Company on Webster street. The funeral was conducted by Rev. C. H. Stevens and was followed by interment in Alta Mesa cemetery. During the service songs were sung by Mrs. C. H. Stevens and Mrs. W. A. Crowell.

To Wed Sunday At Methodist Church

A pretty wedding will take place at the Methodist church in this city Sunday afternoon, when Miss Mary Clark will become the bride of Kenneth Saunders of this city. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. A. H. Clark, former pastor of the Methodist church here, and father of the bride-to-be. The wedding will be followed by a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Winniger.

The bride-groom is a nephew of Mrs. Winniger, and is associated with Mr. Winniger in the painting business here.

Al O'Neill, a well-known resident of Woodside, has just bagged a 140-pound buck. He was accompanied by his brother, Emmett O'Neill, Dan Foley and Vernal Kelley.

Francis Moller has left for Winnipeg, Canada, to attend the annual convention of Knights of Pythias. He expects to visit Texas on his return trip.

Lincoln Lodge Sons of St. George, with the Daughters of St. George, will hold a joint card party and dance on the evening of Saturday, August 17, at the Gunwood Inn on Middlefield road, near Palo Alto. The affair will be held in the large hall of the building. Whist and dancing will be indulged in. Admission will be 35 cents.

Flannigan Is Convicted

Carl Flannigan, former attendant at the U. S. Base hospital at Menlo Park, was on Monday convicted of a charge of manslaughter, a charge which carried with it an indeterminate sentence of from 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary. Flannigan was convicted of manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Henry Crocker, who was killed at an intersection near Atherton on June 26. A charge of driving while drunk was dismissed when the more serious count was brought in by the jury.

Flannigan was driving his car at the intersection of Santa Cruz avenue and the Middlefield road when his car collided with one belonging to Mrs. Crocker and driven by her chauffeur. Mrs. Crocker was killed and with her, Mrs. Montague, who was in the car at the time of the accident. The chauffeur was uninjured.

The prosecution was conducted by District Attorney Franklin Swart. J. J. Bullock represented Flannigan.

Services Held For Ben Race

Funeral services were held yesterday morning for Ben Race, well-known merchant of Portola, who passed away at his home there on Tuesday. Services were held at the parlors of the James Crowe Company on Webster street. The funeral was conducted by Rev. C. H. Stevens and was followed by interment in Alta Mesa cemetery.

The deceased is survived by his wife, Mrs. Clara L. Race, and by a step-daughter, Miss Estelle Zammitt, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Ahles and Mrs. Davidson. He was a native of Wisconsin, and had been in California for the past 35 years. During the seven years last past he has been a resident of Portola.

Increase In Library Use, Report Shows

To the Honorable Board of Trustees of the Public Library:
July 1929

July closes with the highest book circulation on record at the local Public Library. For the past five months the circulation has gone steadily upward, and more and more people are constantly using the library. This is shown by the increase of the enlarged book service and the longer library hours.

The book circulation this month of 4,553 volumes is 1,075 higher than for the same month a year ago. There is a large increase in the number of children's books read, and in the adult non-fiction books. We need many more books in both classes in order to keep abreast of the new demand.

The juvenile book circulation this month numbers 1,684 volumes, which is a little more than one-third of the total. As we add more books to this department for eager young readers, this figure is sure to go still higher.

The total number of books issued is unusually large for a vacation month, when there is generally quite a decrease in circulation.

A new and accurate record of the reading-room attendance is now being kept. During July there were 707 persons who came to the library simply to read the newspapers and magazines.

We have also kept a separate record this month of the number of persons who consulted reference books and asked for assistance in answering reference questions. This number is 43. As we add more reference books, there will of course be more of this work done.

There were 33 magazines circulated during the month. We also expect to have this number greatly increased when we are able to have a suitable magazine rack on which to display the periodicals. The only place we have for them now are the book shelves and the reading tables.

It is not possible for anyone outside of the staff to realize what great pressure of work and increased activity there has been at the library as we begin to install new features to improve the service. It has enabled us to cut the desk work in half and now enables us to give a far more efficient service to the public, and to keep accurate trace of all books circulated. Getting all this new work established has taken considerable time.

Next, it was highly necessary to install a new and modern charging system which the new desk makes possible. This means the re-registering of every library borrower, and now we are able to have an accurate record on file of all members together with their addresses. This makes it possible to begin sending (Continued on Page 8)

BAY BRIDGE PROCEEDING CALLED OFF

Hoover Action May Result In S. F. Bay Span

The application for a bridge franchise across the bay to Alameda county, which was to have been made before the board of supervisors Wednesday morning was not made. The interests represented by John E. Manders, San Francisco attorney, instead of making the application which was supposed to have been asked for, on Monday notified the board of their intention to drop their proceedings. The bridge proposed in the application would have been erected near the San Francisco county line in this county.

Almost coincident with the notice of the Manders interests to drop their application, the announcement was made of the intention of President Hoover to endeavor to have set aside the ruling of the war department which prevents any bridge construction across the bay north of Hunters Point in San Francisco.

In announcing his decision to seek a revision of the ruling of the war department, Hoover said: "There can be no question as to the necessity for such a bridge for the economic development of these communities."

"I shall appoint a commission, comprising two representatives from the Navy, two from the Army, and I shall ask the authorities of San Francisco to appoint one member, the authorities from the east side of the bay to appoint another member."

"I shall ask the Governor to appoint one or two members and I will appoint a leading citizen; Mark L. Requa, if he will take it, in the hope that we may arrive at a determination of the common interests."

The President's statement was hailed with satisfaction by Governor C. O. Young and other bridge proponents. Many saw in the declaration a well defined hint to the Navy and War departments that the Chief Executive is not satisfied with their oft-repeated ultimatum limiting the location of the bridge to that portion of the bay south of Hunters Point.

Unless President Hoover expected the department to modify this decision he would have not appointed a commission, bridge proponents point out.

The ruling of the war department, of a bridge across the bay north which made impossible the construction of Hunters Point, made a franchise for a bridge in the most northern portion of the county particularly advantageous. Three previous applications were made for bridge at this point, and all three were rejected by the supervisors.

The William Fox Movietone Follies of 1929 is the first musical revue ever presented on the speaking screen to be shown at the Sequoia theatre, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, August 27, 28 and 29. It has been made at a tremendous expenditure of time, talent, labor and money. Production was started in October, 1928, and was not completed until the middle of April, 1929. During that time many numbers were staged and filmed, only to be discarded because they did not meet the high standard set by William Fox for the movie world's first serious challenge to the famous musical comedies and revues of Broadway.

The Fox Movietone Follies was conceived and executed with the idea of making available to towns and cities the country over the elaborate kind of entertainment common to New York, but of which many other places have been deprived because of the prohibitive costs of transporting companies.

A $10 show on Broadway at movie prices on Main Street—that is the achievement which the Fox Movietone Follies represents.

Before undertaking to carry out such a project, Fox Movietone officials scoured the country for the best available singers, dancers, comedians, directors, composers and technicians.

The principals, choruses, ballet and specialty dancers; the musicians and all others who appear in the Follies, constitute a Blue Book of the entertainment world, while the production staff, consisting only of the most noteworthy names, has joined with the entertainers to create the supreme example of the art of the speaking screen.

Miles Sharkey, Jr., who has been visiting for a fortnight with his parents at their home on Whipple avenue, returned this week to his home in the southern part of the state.

Laverne McNeil returned this week from Colorado, where he went several weeks ago to visit his mother, who is very ill.

Miss Ellamene Clark, who has been visiting her brother, William I. Clark, for the past three weeks, returned Monday to her home in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Services Held For Mrs. J. L. McCrea

Funeral services were held yesterday from the parlors of Layne & Tinney of this city for Mrs. Johanna L. McCrea, who passed away Monday at her home on 15th avenue, North Fair Oaks. She was the mother of A. D. McCrea of this city and of Mrs. N. E. Terpening, Canada, and T. B. and L. G. McCrea of South Dakota. She was the widow of the late Thomas L. McCrea, a native of Illinois and 89 years of age. She had been a resident of Redwood City for the past seven years.

Services were conducted by Rev. E. H. Adams of Palo Alto and were followed by interment in Alta Mesa cemetery.

Woodside

We are sorry to have to record the serious illness of Arthur Mighall at his home in San Mateo. He is the brother of Fred Mighall of Woodside and was himself for many years prominently connected with the development of Woodside. He was for some time superintendent on the Stanley Morshead place and established a local reputation as an efficient fighter of forest fires. His many friends in this community wish him an early recovery.

Mrs. William Lawson of Pasadena, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Leavitt, arrived on Thursday for a visit with her parents here.

George King was visiting his friends in Woodside and Portola on Monday. Mr. King was formerly a resident of Portola. Just a year ago he started out with his family to visit his old home in Michigan. This is not his first drive across the continent, but he decided to see what was worth seeing along the way. He spent several months at the old home in Michigan and in addition has traveled about twelve thousand miles seeing many of the wonders of his country. He is now living at his home in East Palo Alto.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hooper and family are spending this week at their place at Grass Valley.

Rev. Benjamin St. John returned from his vacation last week and services have been resumed at the Woodside church.

The renovation of the school has been completed and as the new term approaches, many of the children, and some of the parents, too, are looking eagerly for the school doors to open.

At their last meeting, the Board of Fire Commissioners voted for the immediate installation of five new fire hydrants. The contract for their installation was awarded to A. E. Rawlings.

County Auditor J. J. Shields is seriously ill at the St. Francis hospital in San Francisco. His condition was stated to be improved yesterday, although he is still considered critically ill.

Legion Boosts For Playground

At its meeting Monday night in their new hall, the local Legion Post stood unanimously in favor of advocating the construction of a playground, wading pool, and tennis courts, on the block of ground lying between Warren and Allerton, and Standish and Howard streets, which was a gift to the city a few years ago.

The unique feature in connection with the wading pool is the fact that salt water would be used, the water to be pumped into the pool at high tide from Point Creek near Smith's Creek, and at proper intervals be drained into the city sewage system as a flusher.

It was pointed out by Frank Thompson, the proposer of the idea, inasmuch as Redwood City is becoming such a popular resort for people to bring their children to in the summer, and as the local people can find many balmy days throughout the year in which their children may enjoy the wading pool and play ground, and as the land will cost nothing and is in a safe location, it was proposed that the Legion sponsor and help the idea along.

A committee composed of F. W. Thompson, James Heame and Louis Behrens, was appointed by Post Commander Thomas Vernal of the Legion, to take charge of the matter.

The wonders of New Zealand were graphically portrayed for members of the Redwood City Exchange Club at the club's regular meeting Tuesday evening by Col. Wilbur S. Tupper, representative of the Union Steamship Co. Col. Tupper told of a few of the many unusual features of the little island on the other side of the globe, and spoke highly of its people and government, which he characterized as one of the greatest experiment stations in free government in the world.

The chairman of the meeting Tuesday evening was John H. Poole.

Col. Tupper In Talk to Exchange

Mrs. O. E. Herriman, employed in the office of Dr. J. N. Blood, is receiving the sympathy of her many friends in the death last Sunday of her father, who was killed by an automobile in San Francisco.

Mrs. Herriman had prepared a birthday party for her brother, O. W. Harrison of San Francisco, at her home in Palo Alto. It was on his way to this party that the father, Mr. Harrison of 4409 Mission street, was killed as he stepped onto the street to hail an approaching car. He was rendered unconscious by the blow and passed away about five hours afterward in the hospital to which he was taken.

In addition to Mrs. Herriman, the deceased leaves the following children: C. W. Harrison, H. P. Harrison, Mrs. Floyd Byers and Miss Elsie J. Harrison, all of San Francisco, and Mrs. B. F. Miller of Los Angeles.

Funeral services were held in San Francisco on Wednesday and were followed in interment in the family plot in Cypress Lawn cemetery.

Ban Set On Shell Fish

The quarantine against all clams and mussels caught along the San Mateo county coast line will remain in force at least until September it was announced this week by Dr. Walter M. Dieck, state director of public health, and will be retained longer if tests of the mollusks at that time prove to still be infected with the poison which has caused the severe illness of a number of persons this summer. The poison in the mollusks is said to be due to a change of diet on the part of the shellfish caused by a shifting of the ocean currents along the coast.

The county health officer, Dr. F. Holmes Smith, is co-operating with the state health office and is testing various shellfish from along the coast. The quarantining, which at present is limited to clams and mussels will be extended to other types of shellfish if tests reveal the presence of the poison virus in the other forms of ocean life.

Placards warning persons from taking the mollusks have been posted along the coast this week, and the ban will be strictly enforced.

Mrs. Herriman's Father Killed Sunday in S. F.

Girl Scouts Camp At "Deep Woods" Is Brought to Close

"Deep Woods," the Junior Girl Scout Camp for Girl Scouts under high school age, occupied the site in the Big Basin used by the San Jose Camp Fire Girls, from July 7 to August 4, and now it has moved on to Camp Chaparral, the Senior Girl Scout Camp and Training School for camp executives. The girls could go for two weeks, four weeks, or six weeks, the last two weeks to be at Chaparral. There the Junior girls are still under the supervision of Miss Alice Phillips, the director of Deep Woods and our local director, although Miss Vaal Stark, our regional director, is the director of Chaparral.

"Deep Woods" has been established as a primitive camp and the girls have had an opportunity to sleep under the stars at the foot of giant Sequoias, to eat in a beautiful redwood grove, to swim in a pool that gets the sun from ten in the morning until four in the afternoon, and to read in an outdoor library arranged in a grove of towering trees.

"Deep Woods" averaged 130 for the first four weeks and about fifty more girls moved to Chaparral for the last two weeks. The great success of the camp is due to the splendid work of the director, Miss Phillips, and the co-operation of her capable and talented corps of assistants. Miss Phillips' many years' experience in Girl Scout Camping in the East and Middle West has given her a fund of experience that is bringing unusual opportunities for the children.

The following girls in Redwood City spent part of their vacation at "Deep Woods": Phyllis Cole, Virginia Coombs, Yvonne Peterson, Virginia Lee Hata, Doris Helin, Winifred Hoenc, Katherine Kalenborn, Ella Kilbourne, Margaret McGee, Alice Manley, Alice McCarthy, Margaret McCarthy, Carmen Pramb, Betty Shaw, Peggy Shaw, Adrian Squires, Barbara Lee Squires, Margaret Southward, Gertrude Tiederman, Josephine Treichel, Mary Vignall, Julia Wade, Verda Zirkle.

Gilbert D. Farrell, attorney of Redwood City and Burlingame, addressed members of the Redwood City Improvement Association Tuesday evening on the subject of the Annexation Committee. Attorney Farrell, who is a member of the committee formed at the invitation of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, to study the question of annexation between this county and San Francisco, explained the work which this committee has done in gathering data for a study of this important subject.

Exchange Club Sponsors Air Derby

As a climax to the first year a service club organization has backed aviation as a national movement, the National Women's Air Derby from Santa Monica, California, to Cleveland, Ohio, is to be held under the auspices of the National Exchange Club, sponsored by the Exchange Club of Santa Monica, August 18 to 26, in connection with the National Air Races and Aeronautical Exposition.

This 8-day transcontinental air race over desert, forest, and mountain, first ever held for women, has the sanction of the National Aeronautic Association and is to be one of the outstanding features of the National Air Races.

Nearly a score of the nation's leading women fliers are entered in the derby, including Amelia Earhart, Ruth Elder, Marvel Crosson, Mrs. Florence Lowe Barnes, Mrs. Louise M. Thaden, Blanche Wilcox Noyes, Mary E. Von Mach, Elinor Smith, Bobby Trout, Mrs. Sarah Warren, Margaret Perry, Peggy Hall and Myrtle M. Brown.

The Exchange Clubs in the control cities along the route will be official hosts to the fliers, feting them at banquets and receptions, and many of them are offering separate Exchange Club Lap prizes to be awarded the fliers making the best time between their cities and the preceding control stations.

The finish of the Women's Air Derby in Cleveland, August 26, will be celebrated as "Exchange Club Day" at the National Air Races and Aircraft Show. Delegations from Exchange Clubs that have sponsored aviation in their communities, are expected from all sections of the country.

The all-day celebration will be climaxed in the evening with an Aviation Achievement Banquet, sponsored by the greater Cleveland Exchange Clubs under the auspices of the National Exchange Club.

A total of 851 aviation achievements have been accomplished and are now being negotiated by Exchange Clubs in their communities about the country, according to a survey recently made, says Herold M. Harter, National Secretary.

The Air Derby will start from Santa Monica Sunday, August 18, and the Redwood City Exchange Club is understood to be represented in the southern city by Kendall Towne, Lindsey Gray and others.

Hare, Brewer & Clark Open Offices In Sequoia Building

Hare, Brewer & Clark, well-known real estate firm of Redwood City and Palo Alto, builders of the Sequoia building on Broadway, and agents for Edgewood Park, have opened a business office at 232 Hamilton street in the Sequoia building.

The local office is prepared to conduct a general real estate and insurance business with special emphasis on residential and business property in Redwood City, apartment sites and the handling of rentals.

The Redwood City office is being managed by L. W. Robbins, formerly president of the L. W. Robbins Co., a large ice cream manufacturing concern of Newark, N. J. While engaged in the manufacture of ice cream in the East, Robbins also conducted a large real estate business. When he sold the Robbins Company in 1927, he devoted his entire attention to real estate. He has been in California for about a year, and settled in Redwood City in preference to any other part of the state, as he believes that the future possibilities here are greater than in any other section of the Pacific Coast.

Francis Tinney has returned from a two weeks' vacation spent in the Canadian Rockies.

A number of members of Bay View Lodge of Odd Fellows are expected to attend the Odd Fellows' picnic to be held on the Russian river, near Guerneville next Sunday, August 18th, which is to be attended by Hjalmar Johnson, grand master of Odd Fellows of the State of California.

Frank Peterson, his son and daughter, Axel and Miss Jennie Peterson spent Sunday at their summer home in Dearborn Park. Guests at the Peterson home included Asa Hull, Mrs. R. Shields, Mrs. C. J. Bettin, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Miguel, Miss Maud Gleishner, Miss Sophie Gleishner, Miss Alice Bettin and Carl Bettin.

Hearing Set For Bayshore Bridge

Plans for extension of the Bayshore highway to Redwood City were seen yesterday in an application of the State Board of Public Works for government approval of a proposed bridge over Redwood creek.

The bridge is to cross a 34-foot channel, 700 feet downstream from Bradford street, which is the proposed route of the highway extension, said County Engineer George Knese.

A hearing on the state's application for approval of the structure by the United States War department will be held at 2:30 o'clock on the afternoon of September 3 at the city hall in Redwood City, says an announcement yesterday from district engineer of the war department in San Francisco.

Hall Ross Is Named Trustee

Hall C. Ross, member of the well-known law firm of Ross & Ross, was appointed by the members of the board of trustees of Hillsborough as a member of that board to succeed Thomas F. Breeze, whose resignation was to take effect that evening.

The booster committee of Bay View Lodge of Odd Fellows are planning a dance at the lodge hall for Saturday evening August 24th. Good music has been secured for the affair and a good time is promised all attending.

J. E. Layng Is Married

At a quiet wedding at the home of Rev. E. A. VanNuy, Presbyterian pastor of San Francisco, Miss Evelyn Mitchell of that city, yesterday became the bride of John Layng of this city. J. D. Hedge, a close friend of the bride-groom, acted as best man, and Mrs. Hedge attended the bride. Other persons present were Mrs. Layng and Miss Sadie Layng, mother and sister of the bride-groom.

Following the ceremony the bride and groom left on a wedding tour, which will take them to many points of interest in the state. Upon their return they will make their home in a pretty cottage on Brewster street.

Mrs. Layng is a popular young lady of San Francisco, and quite well known in Redwood City, where she has often visited, and where she has many friends. Layng, who is a partner in the Redwood City Undertaking Company, has been in business here for the past 15 years. He is popular in social and fraternal circles, a past patron of Sequoia Chapter O. E. S., and was president of the Redwood City Kiwanis Club last year.

First American Hoop Race Is Held in Los Angeles

America's first "human hoop" champion is Miss Betty Ellis of Los Angeles, who was victorious in the first American "hoop-wheel" race, held at Carthay Circle, a suburb of the California city. Inasmuch as the contestants were all of the type which has helped to make southern California famous, cordons of police were called into service to hold back the cheering crowds. This photograph shows the lineup of the pretty human hoop rollers before the start of the race.

Fighting Mediterranean Fruit Fly in Florida

Florida is trying desperately to save its citrus groves from the dreaded Mediterranean fruit fly that has invaded the state, and the federal government is helping in the fight. In the photograph is seen the spraying of trees with chemicals.

DIEGEL WINS AGAIN

Leo Diegel making a long drive at the Kanawaki course during the Canadian open championship which he won with a score of 274, the lowest score ever turned in at a major tournament. The German-American played matchless golf against such stars as Tommy Armour, Walter Hagen and Horton Smith, to win for the fourth time in the golf classic of Canada.

STARTING EARLY

This is Tracy B., sixteen-month-old son of Mrs. Fanny Dunway, of St. Louis, Mo., who is an addict, at his tender age, to Lady Nicotine. He is fond of cigars but prefers his pipe. Tracy has several brothers and sisters who are immensely proud of his attainment. The Dunway family recently moved up to St. Louis from the hills of Kentucky.

Bull Frog a Game Fish

In Idaho the lowly bullfrog has the legal status of a game fish, having an open and closed season and other legal protection such as is accorded the aristocracy of the finny tribe. It is reported that in Idaho the bullfrog is seriously regarded as desirable game. It is hunted with small caliber rifles or by rod and line. If angled for with hook and line, a piece of red flannel is used as bait. The bullfrog is taken not merely for sport but because it is a very desirable article of food, as a good sized mature bullfrog weighs over a pound and provides delicate meat equivalent to that furnished by an eight-inch trout.

World's Biggest Tree

A cypress tree in the Mexican village of Tuin is said to be the largest, though not the tallest, tree discovered by botanists. It has a trunk 154 feet in circumference and is hundreds of years old, possibly a thousand or two.

Uniform Hats in Persia

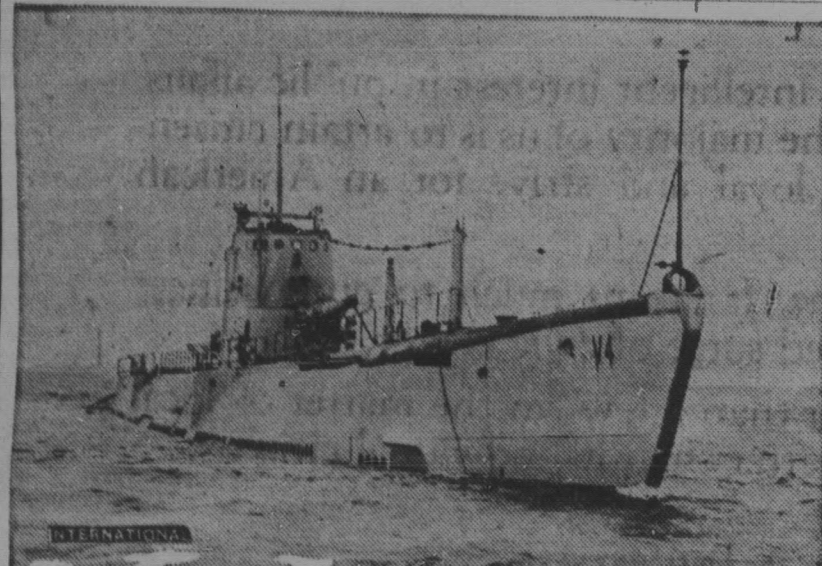

Every Persian today from the king to the schoolboy, is forced by law to wear the same form of hat, known, after the king's name, as the Pahlavi hat. Any person wearing any other hat is arrested and fined.

She Could Have Only One a Day

When the doctor prescribed only one cigarette a day for this English miss she was puzzled as to what to do until she solved the problem by having a Bond Street firm manufacture one for her. The cigarette is a foot long and an inch in diameter. It contains two ounces of tobacco.

Submarine "Saved" in 23 Minutes

This submarine, the V-4, largest in the American navy, was "saved" from a watery grave off San Diego in 23 minutes by the use of the new emergency "lungs," into which air was pumped from the salvage ship Ortolan.

Goodyear Blimp Lands on the Sea

Equipped with pontoons, the Goodyear blimp Volunteer made a series of successful sea landings in the vicinity of Los Angeles harbor. Lieut. Karl Lange, pilot, said he experienced no particular difficulty. This was said to be the second time in the history of aviation that such a feat has been accomplished. About ten years ago a similar landing was made by a Goodyear ship.

THINGS YOU MAY NOT KNOW

Buttons were used by the ancient Greeks in fastening tunics and armor. Paris women are starting a fad for carrying venomless serpents as pets. Slightly under ripe fruits make the best fruit pickles, Cornell home economics experts advise. The pygmy blue butterfly, Brephidium exilis, is the smallest species in existence, and is the one extensively used for butterfly jewelry.

An Iowa factory is making corn stalk wallboard. The Japanese learned the art of metal-working from China. The Navajo Indian reservation is the largest of the Indian reservations in the United States. When firemen of Guilford, Conn. decided to test three new hydrants with a powerful pump, they quickly exhausted the town's water supply.

OFFERS $100,000 FOR GO WITH INVERSHIN

Owner of Reigh Count Desires Another Chance.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hertz have returned from England and their horse, Reigh Count, winner of the Coronation Cup and second in the Ascot Gold Cup, will follow shortly. They are so keen for another meeting with Invershin, which beat their idol for the Gold Cup, that Hertz said that he would personally add $100,000 to the $100,000 which the American National Jockey club will offer for an international race at Arlington park next year, if Sir Reid Walker will send his champion to this country. The race would be under the same conditions as the Ascot Gold Cup and at the same distance—two miles and a half. He added:

"If the leading European owners show a desire to compete, Reigh Count will be trained for this one race next year. If the race does not materialize the horse, now four years old, will be retired to the stud without racing again at our home, Leona farms, Cary, Ill., and bred to 20 mares next spring.

"While we have 40 mares of our own, we do not propose to make a private stallion of Reigh Count. We feel that the American racing world has an interest in him with us, for which reason he will be bred to some mares outside of our own. Already we have had three requests in England to send mares to Reigh Count."

The fastest time for running a mile is 4 minutes 12 seconds, and for walking 6 minutes 28 seconds.

Golf is America's richest sport, it being figured the game has a total investment of $2,000,000,000.

The largest fight gate on record was for the Tunney-Dempsey fight at Chicago, which ran to $2,650,000.

The ban on hunting with a bow and arrow in Minnesota has been lifted by the state legislature.

St. Paul in the past 20 years has turned out more great ringmen than any other city of its size in the world.

We don't know about football players in Iowa, but when corn is 14 feet tall it is out of the amateur class.

Colored golf balls have their counterpart in red tennis balls, and now a yellow baseball has reached the counters.

Bog Gardner, once amateur golf champion, has forsaken that game and now is doubles champion at indoor tennis.

Prince Pierre of Greece, grandson of the assassinated King George, is one of the best hockey players and most popular athletes in France.

Al Espinosa, who met Bob Jones in the playoffs of the United States open golf championship, has three brothers and a sister, all of them golf professionals.

Despite his defeat by Max Schmeling, Paulina Uzcudun can still maintain his claim of never having been knocked off his feet for a count during his ring career.

Bobby Jones announces that he plans to play in both the British open and British amateur championships next year. His next big tournament will be the national amateur at Del Monte, Calif., in September.

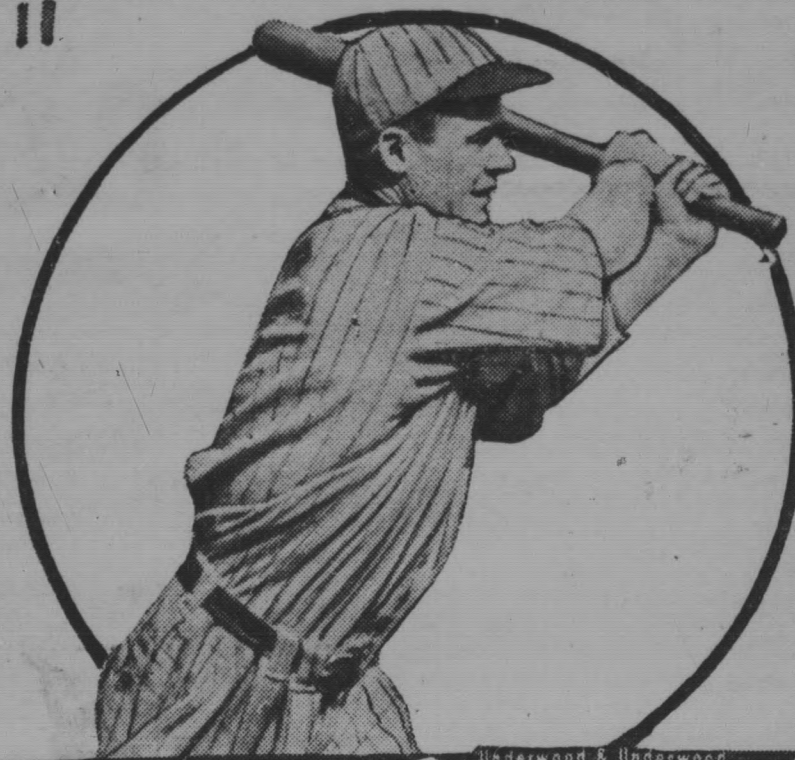

If Max Schmeling becomes heavyweight boxing champion, he will be the first in a long time without the letter "J" in his name. Going back, it was Gene James Tunney, Jack Dempsey, Jess Willard, Jack Johnson, James J. Jeffries.

Tommy Ryan, former boxer, is now chief inspector for the California athletic commission in its southern district.

Joe Rivers, most prominent of the Mexican boxers of recent years is now refereeing in Los Angeles and its neighborhood.

A pension has been granted Henry H. (Pop) Lannigan, who has served twenty-five seasons as coach of track and basketball at the University of Virginia.

Costly Rookie Is of Big Family

Underwood & Underwood

In the little Ozark community where "Chip" Cissell, the White Sox rookie shortstop, received his first lessons in baseball, it is a tradition that there "never was a Cissell who couldn't play baseball if he tried."

Perryville, Mo., his old home town, still points with pride to a team of 25 years ago composed of all Cissells. On the team was the father of "Chip." However, it was not until 1908 that this group made the name of Cissell feared wherever baseball was played in southeast Missouri and southern Illinois.

With the 1908 team was Tesreau, the big Ozark bear hunter, who later became the ace of John McGraw's hurling staff. Max played first base and was considered a dangerous hitter and a star at his position, but he refused steadfastly to join the professional ranks.

Sam Cissell, "Chip's" uncle, held down an outfield berth. Another uncle, Den Cissell, a giant in stature, covered second and was a terrific hitter. The story is told that once Den connected with such force that his bat broke, the free end flying over second base.

The most sensational of the Cissells, however, was Fred, the "one-armed marvel." Fred played short without a glove and was feared at the bat because of his timely Texas leaguers.

These four Cissells were the stars of the family. With Tesreau the group constituted one of the strongest semipro ball teams ever assembled in southwest Missouri.

BASEBALL NOTES

No major league pitcher made more than one balk last season.

The world series twice has been decided in four straight games—in 1914 and 1918.

Ed Walsh holds the strikeout record for a world series game, killing off 12 in 1906.

Ohio had 14,000 boys competing in the American Legion baseball tournament this year.

Grant Gillis, second baseman, has been released by the Boston Red Sox on option to Columbus.

A pop bottle thrown at a Toronto player hit Doll Derr in the Reading park. The unpopular player was Joe Rabbit.

Verne (Tubby) Clomons, the former St. Louis Cardinal catcher, is performing in Chicago semipro circles this season.

Burleigh Grimes' first defeat of the year was marked by an off day in the field for the Pirates. They made seven errors.

Mrs. Babe Ruth calls her husband "George," which puts her one up on everybody else. Nobody has been found who calls him "Herman."

Walter Johnson, manager of the Washington team of the American league, will impose a fine of $500 on any of his players who play golf.

It is probable that the Portland (Ore.) Pacific Coast league team, will play its games in the near future at the Multnomah Amateur Athletic club stadium.

Fred Merkle, one-time New York Giant and Chicago club first sacker, and author of the famous "hone head play," has a residence near Daytona Beach, Fla.

Shortstop Johnny White has been sent to the Des Moines club of the Western league under an optional agreement, officials of the Columbus Senators announce.

Although the Athletics' roster gives Jack Quinn's age as forty-one, this veteran pitcher played on a soldiers' team in Tampa during the Spanish war, and that was 31 years ago.

With Outfielder Dan Taylor, obtained from the Cubs, Reading has placed him in center to relieve Rabbit Whitman, who is moved over to right field. Joe Kelly has been benched.

Little Rock and Nashville (Southern) claim a record for men left on bases in a game recently, 25 being left stranded. Nashville deserted 13 prospective scorers and Little Rock 12.

Lee Meadows, veteran pitcher who was sent to the Indianapolis club of the American association under option several weeks ago, has been given his unconditional release by the Pittsburgh National league club.

The spit ball didn't slow up Red Faber, Jack Quinn, Clarence Mitchell and Burleigh Grimes, for they're still using it, 10 years after the major leagues decided it must go. They were exempted because they already were using it.

Attendance has been so bad at the Cardinals' park complaint is made even the knotholders are poorly represented.

Sammy Dyer, St. Edwards university pitcher during the past four seasons at Austin, Texas, has been signed by the Cardinals.

Few big league players can boast the life-time batting average of Joe Jackson, one of the Chicago "black sox." Joe hit for .353 in his big-league career.

In Great Comeback

The Pittsburgh Pirates, now one of the "big three" in the pennant race, have achieved a distinction few teams have ever equaled. Changing the three most important positions on the infield of players from the minors not listed in the "fancy price" class, they have worked into a winning combination. The infield two years ago consisted of Grantham, 1st; Adams, 2nd; Wright, s. s.; Traynor, 3rd. The present infield is: Sheely, 1st; Grantham, 2nd; Bartell, s. s.; Traynor, 3rd.

New Coach at Virginia Was Great as Sprinter

Archie Hahn, recently named head track coach at the University of Virginia, stands out as one of the greatest sprinters of all time, in the opinion of Keene Fitzpatrick, Princeton mentor.

Hahn's record of winning the Olympic 100-meter championship twice never has been equaled. He accomplished the feat at St. Louis and Athens back in 1904 and 1906.

Archie received his training in sprinting under Fitzpatrick, who was head coach at the university of Michigan when the sprinter was a student there. For the last six years Hahn has sat at the feet of his old teacher in the role of assistant coach of the Tiger track team.

At Princeton Hahn has been in charge of the 100 and 220 yard dash men, broad and high jumpers, pole vaulters, discus and javelin throwers, also coaching the cross-country team and conditioning the freshman football squad.

Leads in Home Runs

Tennis Compulsory

Tennis has for the first time in Germany been scheduled as a compulsory course in a university curriculum. Griefswald university, which dates from 1456, was the first to make this concession to the modern sporting spirit.

University authorities and municipality have jointly decided to share expenses in the laying out of eight courts, six of which are to be for the free and exclusive use of the students, for 15 years.

Citizenship and Patriotism

THE WORLD WAR again proved to all nations the intense patriotism that dwells in the heart of every American. There is an increasing appreciation of the rights of citizenship on the part of American citizens, though the records show that the majority of towns and cities are lacking in the spirit of citizenship in local affairs and elections.

The crying need in our community life is that every citizen become an ACTIVE citizen; for a community can rise no higher than its citizenship.

Many residents are not registered, probably not one in three so-called citizens vote in primaries, in school or judicial elections. The vote is generally small in local elections. In other words, many of us are not "good" citizens—we do not exercise our franchise of citizenship.

A community cannot be well governed—cannot hope to have an efficient and economical administration of many of the most vital aspects of its life, if its citizens are not actively civic minded. More than one-half the taxes are raised for local distribution. Yet, normally, more people vote in national and state elections than vote in local elections.

Is that good business?

The least a citizen, man or woman, can do is to show an intelligent interest in public affairs, both national and local. The chief direct responsibility for the majority of us is to attain citizenship, establish residence, register, vote, serve on juries, be loyal and strive for an American standard of living.

Our town officials welcome awakened interest in civic affairs. It means much to our business men and property owners. All residents benefit by a renewed surge of civic energy.

As "two heads are better than one" so are "many heads better than a few" in the matter of local citizenship and patriotism. Remember, a town can be no better than its individual citizens.

Local citizenship and patriotism are deserving of a large amount of consideration on the part of all of us. In these we can SHOW the superiority of

That Libel Suit

THE libel action of Judge Percy O'Connor of San Jose against Hyland L. Baggerly, editor of the Los Gatos Mail-News, serves to emphasize two important facts. First—the importance of a newspaper knowing that it is right before it goes ahead; and second—the fact that if a public official is criticized in the press it is better to be very sure that he is right before he takes court action.

The fact that a newspaper publisher must back his assertions before a jury if called upon to do so is one of the greatest factors in upholding the reliability of the press. When a statement is made it is a pretty sure bet the publisher has given the matter considerable thought and is reasonably sure that he is right. When he accuses a public official of partiality to a certain person or class, it is to be inferred that he has figures and data to support his claim.

In the present case, unless the accused official is very, very sure that he is going to be victorious in his suit, he is merely advertising the remarks of the Los Gatos editor. If it had not been for the filing of the libel suit, the accusations of Baggerly would not have been heard much beyond the vicinity of Los Gatos and San Jose. Today, the case is a matter of interest from one end of the country to the other.

Whether or not Judge O'Connor can show that the accusations of the editor are false, the case will have a salutary effect upon the dispensation of justice. It will serve to bring to the judiciary of the state the fact that their actions are being watched and weighed, and that the newspapers stand as the watch dogs of the public.

Justice to one class must be justice to all if there is to be justice at all. The rich must serve under the same terms as the poor. If an official sworn to carry out the law is to do otherwise, then it is time for a newspaper to penne one class of justice to one and another criticize that official, and the editor would be neglecting his duty to the public if he did not do so.

Our Dreadfully Dangerous RILEY SEEN AS LIKELY CANDIDATE

DESIRABLE as dollars may be even in this democracy some late experiences declare them to also present possible sources of danger.

The blood of American marines (not to mention that of many Nicaraguan Americans) has but recently been shed, and many millions of our taxpayers' money has been miserably wasted, to safeguard the investments of a few American plutocrats in Central America. This, under the plea that wherever an America citizen chooses to loan cash, or transact business, he may wrap himself in the flag of our country and claim that the army and navy of these United States shall protect him and his investments.

So long as ours was a debtor nation, borrowing instead of lending gold, this imitation of Great Britain was perhaps harmless. The late world war changed all that. Your columns not only chronicle loans by our millionaire financiers to Germany and France, etc., but, more recently, that just one citizen, Henry Ford is to invest thirty million dollars in Russia.

Now though it may be easy to have the flag follow the dollar in Porto Rico, or Nicaragua, how will that flattering dogma fare should Germany, France, or even Russia, become bankrupt, and repudiate and reject our plutocrats' demands for payment? Is the same boast to prevail and our army and navy be employed to collect Mr. Ford's $30,000,000? Is it not about time we agreed to settle all such matters through the International Court of Justice, which a long string of our Presidents advocated, and which has been established through the initiative of one of that illustrious line?

What do we want more than Justice?
—EDWARD BERWICK

THE boy who has been chosen as Edison's successor, and is hailed as the smartest boy in America, may develop into a man as great as the man who is to sponsor his education, but if he does it will be in spite of his selection as the "brightest boy in America," rather than because of it.

To be pointed out and acclaimed as Edison's successor is a handicap, rather than a help. We wonder how, when Edison was working nights as a telegraph operator and wondering how to make more than one message go over a line at once, his future would have been changed had he suddenly found the going easy and his obstacles removed. We believe that Edison's success was founded not on what he had, but rather on that which he did not have. In overcoming the obstacles which were in his way he developed the power of achievement which resulted in success. If he had been sent off to college with the idea of making him the electrical wizard, and had been hailed when a boy as the smartest boy in America, we doubt if his achievement would have been what it is today.

State Controller May Run for Governor Of State

By CLEM WHITAKER
SACRAMENTO, Aug. 14—(CNB)—The Ray L. Riley boom for governor, gathering sudden headway in southern California, today gives every promise of clarifying California's political situation within the next few weeks.

A possible contender for several years, the state controller apparently has jumped from the ranks of "possibilities" to the probable and formidable class.

According to the most authoritative information reaching the Capitol, friends of Controller Riley in the south have determined that he is the logical man to joust with Governor Young for the toga and have stirred up a definite movement in his behalf.

The Riley boom, originating in his home county of San Bernardino, is declared to have found new stimulus in the camp of Hoover followers throughout many of the southern counties, including Los Angeles. The south wants a candidate for governor—but it wants one who will be acceptable to the north.

While his home is at Colton, San Bernardino county, the state controller due to his place in the state service, has lived in northern California for the last ten years. This, his backers are said to contend, will give him a state-wide viewpoint and fairly general support, if he is prevailed upon "to go."

Quizzed on his attitude today, in light of the more or less public campaign launched in his behalf, Riley made this somewhat significant, though not definite, statement: "I am gratified, naturally, to know I have friends who impose such confidence in me. "I also admit that I'm interested! Who wouldn't be? But other than that, deponent sayeth not, not knowing what to say. Election day is a year distant."

That pronouncement, while somewhat in serio-comic mood, stated a veritable buzz of comment in the statehouse, where it is known that Riley has all the caution of his Scotch forefathers. To the politically-minded, the controller's comment—translated—means that he is quite frankly looking the field over, ready to run if there's a chance to win. But the "chance" must be at least a 50-50 break.

Formerly a druggist, Controller Riley made his first leap into politics when he was elected to the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors. He next stepped to the State Water Commission, in 1918. Then, the following year, former Governor Stephens named him State Real Estate Commissioner. Becoming state controller in 1921, Riley has since built up considerable reputation, nationally as well as in the state, as a tax expert, which received recognition some two years ago in his appointment by Governor Young as a member of the State Tax Commission.

In addition to this background, it is of interest that Riley has just been elected international president of Lions Clubs, previously having served as governor of the California Lions.

Regardless of your politics, a Young-Riley tilt for the Republican nomination would be a battle royale—one of the things that help to make the political game a real sport. And, then, there may be a run-off at the general election with someone like William Gibbs McAdoo trying to come-back for the Democrats.

Essex the Challenger

the Reliability Car of the year

Essex the Challenger has outstandingly established itself as the Reliability car of the year.

How sweeping and convincing are its proofs! In the hands of more than 200,000 owners, the actual service records prove the lowest service costs, and smallest service requirements of any car we know.

Wide Choice of Color at no extra cost

4 Hydraulic shock absorbers—Starter and electric gauge for fuel and oil on dash—Radiator shutters—Adjustable seats, front and rear—All bright parts chromium-plated—saddle lamps—windshield wiper—glare-proof rear view mirror—controls on steering wheel—electrolock—New type double-action 4-wheel brakes.

$695 and up at factory

Two Essex cars made the only perfect scores, in the famous international reliability classic, the Tour de France, winning against many far costlier cars of American and foreign make. And every American locality knows Essex the Challenger for some outstanding reliability record—in Arizona, 1343 miles in 24 hours; in Michigan, 1259 miles in 24 hours and in Kansas 1109 miles in 24 hours.

These are but the dramatic representation of the kind of reliability every Essex the Challenger owner knows. Under every condition of climate and road, in hard country usage as well as continuous city service, it has made itself known to its owners and through them to the world as "the Reliability Car of the year."

LEADS THE WORLD IN MOTOR CAR VALUE

"400" Advanced Six Ambassador

$2184.00

Delivered, Fully Equipped, Nothing More to Buy!

UNQUESTIONED STYLE SUPREMACY with TWIN-IGNITION POWER

PEOPLE constantly mistake the Nash Ambassador for a car in the $3000 or $4000 price class.

That's where its style places it—that's the kind of performance Nash engineering has given it—that's the kind of car it is—in everything but cost.

You've heard a lot about custom design and coachcraft. Here it is, actually and undeniably, in this moderately priced Nash "400"—the same exquisite upholstery as in much more expensive cars—the same luxury of interior decoration—inlaid walnut paneling and folding center arm rest, for instance—the rear quarter enclosed for seclusion and style. Chauffeur or owner driven, the Ambassador outshines and outranks other cars at anywhere near the cost.

It is powered by the new Nash Twin-Ignition motor—the power achievement of the year. If you are a driving enthusiast, and most people are, be sure to drive a Twin-Ignition-motored Nash "400" before you decide on your new car.

And, finally, the Ambassador brings to your motoring many other engineering and value achievements, among them, Bijur Centralized Chassis Lubrication, Houdaille double action hydraulic shock absorbers, world's easiest steering and chromium nickel bumpers front and rear, at no extra cost.

LOW SUMMER FARES NOW IN EFFECT

numbering of houses in the city limits was passed and adopted.

The ordinance changing the names of certain streets in the city limits was up for the first reading and will be adopted at the next meeting of the council.

A resolution was adopted authorizing the county to collect taxes and make assessments at the rate used last year. The law in this regard was modified by the last legislature which directs the supervisors to fix the rate.

The petition asking for the exemption of taxes on property in the possession of the Veterans' Welfare board was continued.

The budget is to be taken up and discussed and will be completed at a special meeting to be held soon. The balance from the last budget as shown at the ending of the fiscal year was $7615.

An ordinance was introduced fixing the salary of Treasurer Ryan at $15 a month.

According to the new law now in effect all owners of cars must take out insurance or be liable for damages. As the city carries no insurance on private cars used by the officers of the police department, agents were asked to present bids for the work.

City Engineer Kneese was directed to take steps towards widening the highway through town. He is to communicate with the highway commission with a view of making a survey of the thoroughfare.

Commutation Rates On Bridge

On and after September 1, commutation rates will be available across Dumbarton bridge. Auto, round trip daily, excepting Sunday $12, extra passenger five cents additional. This is over fifty per cent lower than the regular tolls. This rate will be taken advantage of by many persons living in this community who work in Oakland and other east bay points. The local agent for the American Express Co. here, commutes from Hayward. This reduction is certain to help this locality.

Street Dance and Carnival Aug. 24
The city council at its regular meeting Tuesday evening granted permission to the Native Sons and Daughters to use the portion of Santa Cruz avenue from the highway to the postoffice building for a street dance and carnival on Saturday evening, August 24.

The committee in charge of this annual event are working diligently and expect to satisfy the crowd which will gather on that night. The street is to be lighted by three banks of flood lights, and music by the "Six Sequoians," while amply loud, will be pleasing. The event will be officially opened at 8 o'clock and will continue until 1 o'clock.

When school bells are ringing— instant hot water helps get the children off

— saves 4 to 6 hours each week in housework

When there are little faces to be washed, clean clothes to be put on and all before the school bell rings, then an abundant supply of hot water saves mother's time—if she has hot water without bother or waiting.

There is no need of watching the automatic gas water heater.

You can have plenty of hot water day and night. It costs less than one-fifth of a cent per gallon—the lowest cost of any method for heating water in the home.

Details on replacing your old water heater with a new automatic gas water heater can be obtained at a dealer's store or by telephoning our local office.

Chicago Girl Adopted by Sioux Tribe

Miss Josephine Altman of Evanston, Ill., was adopted by the Sioux tribe of Indians in the Black hills. She was given the name of Singing Bird because she sings Indian songs so well. Miss Altman acquires her interest in Indian things honestly, for she is a descendant of Capt. John Smith, whose life was saved by Pocahontas.

Colleges to Select Planes

New York.—Six American universities equipped for research in aeronautical engineering have been selected by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce to test commercial airplanes in accordance with a new code of procedure on standard performance.

The new code, drawn up by a committee of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, headed by Prof. Alexander Klemin of New York university, is expected to provide manufacturers with a standard basis upon which to compute the speed, rate of climb, ceiling, landing speed, and other performance data which characterize the capabilities of their planes.

Since there is no standard procedure now allowed by the manufacturer in computing these data, experts say that there is a wide range of inaccuracies in the results obtained and advertised.

New York university, University of Michigan, Purdue university, Stanford university, University of Washington, and the California Institute of Technology are the six outstanding engineering institutions selected to carry on the standard tests. Officials of the six universities have accepted the designation of their institutions for the work and are prepared to start the first tests at an early date.

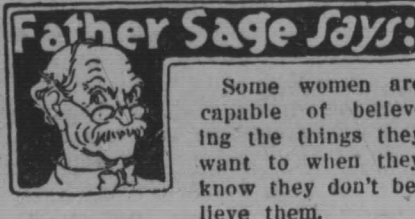

Plans for the first test to be conducted under the new code of procedure are to be announced by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce within a few weeks.

"The universities designated will undertake to have in readiness, at all times, the necessary instruments and apparatus and to be in a position to give reasonable service to manufacturers," Professor Klemin said. "Pilots for the planes to be tested may be selected by the manufacturer, but they must be licensed by the Department of Commerce. Qualified observers will be furnished by the universities, which will receive a certain remuneration for their work in making each test."

The manufacturer may ask for any or all of the following tests to be conducted: High speed; climb to 10,000 feet; ceiling; angle of initial climb; length of takeoff; time to take off; length of landing run; landing speed; minimum speed with power on, and minimum speed with power shut off.

The type and setting of propellers shall be the same for all tests and shall not be changed for different tests. In the case of multi-engine planes, performance tests may be made with one or more of the engines not in action. The code gives specific technical directions to the universities on how the tests must be conducted in order to be considered standard.

THE FIXED IDEA

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

There has been running in New York and Chicago in recent months with a good deal of success and interest a play which alleges to reproduce in a realistic manner an evening in a metropolitan newspaper office. There is much disorder about the place, as it is represented, much profanity and vulgarity, and chewing of tobacco and references to boozing tests among the habitués of the office, for in some way these things picture the fixed idea of what a modern newspaper office is like. Now the facts, if looked into, would seldom, if ever, bear out this idea. A newspaper office is neither more disorderly nor more profane than other business offices, but it would be hard to make the general public believe so.

I noticed a statement in one of our local papers the other evening to the effect that one of our fresh young citizens had been vigorously slapped in the face, as he deserved to be, for making advances to a young woman with whom he had no acquaintance, and who was acting in one of our local theaters. The fixed idea is pretty prevalent that all actresses, being of easy virtue, court attention from strangers and welcome invitations from anybody who is willing to spend money on them. A good many young men have been slapped in the face for erroneously assuming such a point of view. It is a long exploded idea in the minds of those who know anything about the matter that chorus girls and cult, when handling notes in large numbers, to avoid violations of the new rules.

This, by no means, is the only act that is likely to trap the unwary. In a recent case at the Middlesex police court, two girls were fined for selling artificial flowers without a license. Had the blooms been real no such regulation would have been necessary.

The law relating to life on the road bristles with difficulties. For instance, while one may beg for cold water, to ask for hot is a misdemeanor. Further, although it is permissible to swear with impunity in your own house, to do so out of doors is to invite ownership.

The law relating to the ownership of fallen trees also is likely to trip many. If they are unsound or rotten, they are the perquisite of the tenant, but if the timber in them is of good quality and worth selling, they belong to the owner of the land.

Another act says an egg, to be new-laid, must be an egg laid in England.

actresses are less moral, less balanced, and less regular in their lives and habits than other professional women.

The truck-coated, long-whiskered, absent-minded, near-sighted college professor has for decades been represented in humorous magazines and on the stage. So long and to such an extent has he been thus pictured that it has become a fixed idea in the minds of a majority of people who have never been to college that that is the sort of creature he is—impractical, imprudent, ill-dressed, a man of one idea, and that one a very narrow and unbusiness-like idea.

Now the college professor is in fact just as different from other normal people. I am not infrequently asked, when on a railroad train I get into conversation with traveling salesmen, what line I am carrying or what business I represent. I have even been taken for a lawyer or a bank president at times and have not resented the suggestion in the least, and I am sure many of my colleagues would pass as representative business men, though there is a fixed idea against such a possibility.

There is the fixed idea in the minds of many people that all Italians work at hard labor, that all Greeks run restaurants, and Scotchmen are all stinging, and that plumbers continually rob the public and eventually grow rich. The fixed idea is the surest indication of inexperience and ignorance. Our ideas are set upon the subjects about which we know the least.

Differ Over White Heather

Why white heather should be considered a luck-bringer is an open question. Certain Highland clans, whose chieftains included heather in their badge, have always regarded white specimens as lucky. On the other hand, ancient Gaelic tradition associated it with misfortune and death.

no matter how long ago; or that, while one may sell loganberries at any hour, to offer for sale green figs after 8 p. m. is to render one liable to a fine.

But perhaps the easiest of all laws to break is the one regarding the temperature of workshops wherein men are employed. In Kent, the officials of a concern were summoned because the temperature of the works was not more than six degrees higher than that prevailing outside. By giving an assurance that they would see that their employees enjoyed the warmth required by the act their case was eventually dismissed after payment of the costs.

Lights of New York

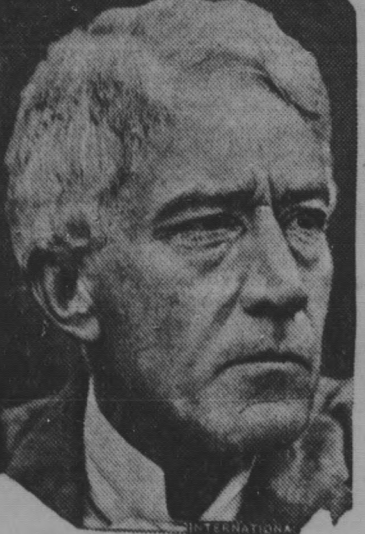

By GRANT DIXON

A Real Touch of the Orient

New York.—The dramatic critics never seem to visit the Boverly's Chinese theater, a novelty, to be sure. It is housed in a building disjunct the point of dilapidation. The scenery is strangely assorted of old stock company sets eked out with chairs of uncertain lineage, brocade cushions and other stage properties. The members of the orchestra sit in plain view on the stage. They appear in their shirt sleeves, their hats hung upon the scenery at the side. They play to lend "motif" to the drama.

An interesting point about these Chinese audiences, too. They are so steeped in the play that they readily prompt actors. If an actor hesitates for a second, his cue is likely to be shouted from the gallery.

LANDIS GIVEN MEDAL

The American Legion distinguished service medal, hitherto awarded to only two Americans, was presented to Kenesaw Mountain Landis, former federal judge, now national baseball commissioner, at a testimonial luncheon at Chicago, Gen. John J. Pershing and Admiral H. E. Coontz are the other two who have been awarded the medal.

I imagine all this would baffle our critics—particularly the fact that one show is apt to take a week or more before its presentation is completed.

Getting Down to Figures

Beauty has been reduced to common denominators. I. H. Herk, president of the Mutual Burlesque association, informs me that hereafter he will hire no girls, regardless of their looks, if they don't fit into these measurements:

Height, 5 feet 3 inches; shoulders, 13½ inches; waist, 26 inches; hips, 34 inches; bust, 34 inches; thigh, 13½ inches; calf, 13 inches; ankle, 7 inches.

Money in His Shoes

Well, a fellow by the name of Billy Pierce, from Virginia, came to town and tried to figure out how to make a living. There are all kinds of rackets here. The problem is to select the right racket.

Billy, in his amateur moments, had made quite a bit of racket tap dancing. So he established a tap dancing school. They tell me it's the rage on Broadway. Everybody's tap dancing, including the people who live above me, as evidenced by the cracks in the plaster ceiling.

All Very Strange

Men's shoes and women's hats are so loud on Fifth avenue today that stores ought to advertise: "For Sale: Shoes and Hats—With Sound."

Horatio Alger books continue on sale in spite of an age that scoffs at his homely idea of "fight and win." You can get the books in obscure second-hand shops for ten cents a piece.

Saw a lady taxicab driver in Times square the other day. A lady barber, or a lady usher achieves favorable attention, but humanity still remains doubtful about lady drivers—unless they restrict their driving to the back seat.

An Old House in Chelsea

They say that one of the best preserved and least altered of the century-old houses of New York is in West Twenty-second street in old Chelsea. It was built in 1827 by an English cotton manufacturer named Gargill on a lot purchased from Dr. Clement C. Moore, author of "Twas the Night Before Christmas."

In this home gathered at various times the literary, social and stage celebrities of the time. William Cullen Bryant, Parke Goodwin and N. P. Willis were among the famous to enjoy hospitality in the place. Mrs. Edwin Forrest, when hostess, smoked "little white segars," presumably cigarettes—before the days of blind-fold tests and such.

LOVELY ENSEMBLE

A lovely three-piece jersey ensemble for early fall wear. The skirt and jacket are in brown, while the blouse is of beige. The box plaits in the skirt add charm to the outfit.

Old Customs Survives

In some of the small villages of Great Britain, it is said, the ministers still adhere to the age-old custom of reading each verse of the hymn before the congregation sings it. This custom is a survival from the time when the majority of the congregation could not read. It is strange that it should still survive after so many years of compulsory education.

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

Pumice Stone

Pumice stone comes to us from the depths of the earth. Filled with gas when thrown out upon the surface by volcanoes, it was found under great heat, the escaping gas causing it to be very spongy in appearance. It has been of great aid to scientists in learning something of the undercrust of our planet.

A visit to a farm is always a time replete with things of interest for children from the city. Animals are especially a source of wonder. The fact that ducks could swim on top of the water in the pond thrilled two little fellows.

It was all very well until one duck suddenly did a nose dive and disappeared.

"Oh, Buddy; that duck lost his balance and fell in, and he'll drown if we don't get him out!" one of the two cried in distress.

Sensible Canadian

A heat wave that prevailed in Ontario, Canada, for several days induced a male citizen of Tillsonburg, after observing feminine styles, to appear on the street in short blue pants, bare legs and sandals, silk shirt with open neck and short sleeves and a straw hat. He first took the precaution to ask the chief of police if he would be arrested and was told that his costume was within the law.

Life Sled for Fire Rescues

In saving persons from burning buildings firemen of Germany may use a "fire sled," invented recently by a German. The victim is strapped in a bag, which is mounted on runners, and given a slide down the rungs of a ladder, the speed being controlled by a rope stretching from the top of the bag.

This Animal Lived

17,000,000 Years Ago

Waukesha, Wis.—The skeleton of an organism that lived 17,000,000 years ago, has been found by Harold L. Caspar, head of the Fossil club of amateur geological explorers here. This animal, which science has named cymene, of the trilobite family, is said to be the first inhabitant of the upper silurian crust. These crustaceans were the first living things to have eyes and the power to crawl.

Construction has been started on a new Northwestern Pacific Railroad station at San Anselmo.

A $55,000 concrete bridge across the San Lorenzo river at Riverside avenue in Santa Cruz is planned to replace the present structure.

The Walker, Martin & Montgomery Company of Stockton, with a bid of $19,223, was awarded the contract for installation of electroliners on five of the main streets of Monterey.

The Merced Lumber Company has purchased the West Turlock Lumber and Mill Company, operating a chain of four retail houses in Turlock, Hilmar, Ballico and Delhi, and a planing mill in Turlock.

Plans are under way for an expedition of state and national forest officials into the Kings River Canyon district to prepare for an influx of tourists expected when roads now under construction are completed.

More than $100,000 worth of paving for Moro Heights was ordered by the county Board of Supervisors, when a contract was awarded to Western Roads Company of Los Angeles, on their low bid of $117,201.

The Lodi Exchange Club, which last year won first place in a national attendance contest, placed second this year with a record of 97 per cent, against 98 per cent scored by the winning club of Marine City, Mich.

Ceres High School's new and modern gymnasium, valued at approximately $50,000, was destroyed by fire recently. Rola McKnight, caretaker at the school, discovered the fire when an explosion of unknown origin tore off a section of the building.

Other communities may strive valiantly for the proposed Western federal narcotic farm, to be built "somewhere in California," but Visalia doesn't want it. The Visalia Chamber of Commerce, asked to submit an offer for a site, turned down the proposal.

Washed up by the seas, a trunk containing $300,000 worth of negotiable securities was in the hands of police at Ventura. Papers in the trunk were made out to Bartlett Heard and his father, Dwight B. Heard, of Phoenix, Ariz., newspaper publisher who died last March.

Instruction in the use of an inhalator, recently purchased by the local fire department, was given to several firemen at Walnut Creek in the third of a series of lectures by George Long of Piedmont. Volunteer firemen of the Central fire district all will be instructed in the use of the instrument, according to Captain Norman Wilson.

Wage schedules for Mare Island Navy Yard during 1930 will be determined at a meeting of a special wage board to be held in August, it was announced by Commander C. L. Brand. Report of the board will be sent to Washington and the new schedule is expected to become effective January 1.

Citizens of Napa carried their fight against the proposed $5,000,000 Conn Valley project to the state courts. Defeated by a local court decision in their attempt to force the supervisors to call an initiative election, they gave notice that the case would be taken to the Appellate Court. Two thousand had signed petitions for a special election on a proposed county ordinance which by limiting the size of reservoirs would prevent construction of a huge earthen dam in Conn Valley.

There should be no grounds for any motorist pleading ignorance of the California vehicle act, effective August 14, as amended by the 1929 Legislature, for approximately 115,000 copies of the act will be distributed free by the state. More than 14,000 copies of a booklet compiled by Arthur Olinimus, chief clerk of the Assembly, Joseph A. Beck, secretary of the Senate, and Paul Mason have been printed by the state printing office for distribution. The division of motor vehicles expects to send to enforcement officials of cities and counties and to motorists direct a total of more than 100,000 copies of the act.

A report issued by the government and received at Mare Island revealed that employees in the clerical ranks of the United States earn more than do employees in similar positions on the "outside."

In the second grade the government worker has an advantage of only 18.32 per cent. In the third grade this advantage is reduced to 8.27 per cent, while workers in the fourth grade received 2.47 per cent less than employees outside the federal fold.

Carefree California, mixing pleasure and business in the highball of happiness, continues to lead the nation in municipal expenditures for recreation and to reap reward in proportion. So it appeared as State Controller Ray L. Riley announced that cities of the state in the past twelve months have spent more than $9,000,000 on recreation alone, and that the percentage of increase of past years indicates a heavy gain in 1929. Well in the lead with a magnificent chain of municipal parks, California spends generously for music, play-grounds, tree-lined streets and outdoor entertainment. Riley declared in releasing expenditures of 268 municipalities which come under his official reckoning.

Assessment valuations in Napa county in the last year gained nearly two million dollars, County Assessor Samuel J. Webber announced. Webber's annual report shows the total value of all assessed property in Napa county to be $25,048,578.

A bond issue of $134,000 will be put before the people of Watsonville as soon as a committee appointed by Mayor Baker checks the plans for the improvement of the city water system. The water system has been operated at a profit since its purchase by the city in 1926.

The municipal airport at Hanford was inspected by Capt. C. A. McKenzie and I. N. Brunson of the Continental Air Express, who landed to investigate matters in connection with the company's new air line from San Francisco to Los Angeles. They expressed themselves as being well pleased with the port, finding that it has possibilities ahead of the average landing-field. Its special advantage is that it is virtually in town and the usual automobile trip for passengers is a mere taxi ride instead of a "trip."

Temperaments Made While You Wait

IF PEOPLE would only stop talking about complexes and go back to the talk about temperaments, we'd all be better off, and common sense would have its day again. Ages before there was any of this complex patter, there was plenty of good dope on temperaments, and after all the complexes have been scrapped, our human temperaments will still be in fashion.

But for all that, there is some sort of likeness between the complexes they talk about and the temperaments which we have, for both of them are made to order. We wish them on ourselves. We put them on as though they were hats and coats.

The old idea was that you were just born with a certain kind of temperament in the same way that you were born with a certain kind of complexion. Well, we do all we can to make our complexions look the way we want 'em to, but we are not so careful in doling up with temperament.

If only there were a certain kind of cold cream which would give a girl a cheerful temperament after she had applied the stuff to her face. That would be some cosmetic! Or if a girl could have common sense put into her head the way she has a water wave put into her hair. We want the common sense wave to be permanent.

Now, as a matter of fact, a person's temperament is largely of his or her own make. Of course, it isn't in a bottle or tube that you can buy at the pharmacy, and it can't be applied like a freckle lotion. But still there is something about temperament that enables a person to handle it.

The first step in the direction of temperamental control is by means of emotion. That's a thing that comes and goes, and if you are going to operate, you must be up on your toes and sweat the fly of temperament while it's buzzing around your head.

Let the emotion take root and it will spring up in the form of mood, which is only an emotion long drawn out.

If you are worried about being bald or freckled, as the case may be, you should worry about something which you can control—temperament. You'll have a better chance to change that than you have with your bald dome and freckled face.

It's up to you. When you say you can't feel feeling sad or ugly, it means that you don't want to feel either wise. Start with the emotion and get it under control. Proceed to the mood and do some house cleaning there. Then you'll be ready to operate upon your temperament. Try it. It won't hurt. And a good temperament makes for popularity.

To Her That Hath

TO HIM that hath shall be given, which is just as true with her. Those who don't need money make it. They who are strong take the exercise. And the girl with a complexion that would make a peach envious is the one who spends the money for the beauty stuff. 'Twas ever thus.

You'd think that the man with the flat chest and skinny arms would be found in the gymnasium with the rest of the dumb bells, but it's more often the athlete with an arm like a bunch of bananas who is found monkeying with the gymnastics.

Then you would imagine that the poor guy would be the one to save and invest what money he had, but he's usually too good a spender and he lets the millionaire pursue the nickel.

It's the same in education. The man who has a string of degrees after his name works the encyclopedia, while the gink who can't write a decent letter keeps away from the Carnegie library as though it were quarantined. It's just the people who don't need more strength or money or knowledge who are working their muscles and filling their pockets and winking up their beards. I'll say it's funny.

Now it's just as much a rule in the case of beauty and cosmetics. The girl who has the real goods, natural finish is the one who hangs around the toilet-goods counter of the Blue Front Drug store, while the girl who needs a little first aid to the flesh keeps away from the place.

How are we going to balance things up so that the beauties keep off the beautifiers and the plainer Jans take their places at the cosmetic counter?

There's the same trouble with manners, which are the beauty spots of the soul. Those who are naturally polite and well-bred never ease up on their company manners but work them overtime. Those who require this social polish seem to rejoice in staying rough. To her who bath health, beauty, manners and the like shall be given because she's always taking more of these things.

To her who hath not these graces shall be taken away what natural charm she doth possess. That's the bad part of it. The pretty girl who uses cosmetics carries coal to Newcastle. The plainer girl won't use the coal when it's brought to her.

Let's be sensible. Let's use exercise, cold creams and party manners where they are needed. We don't want to be gypped out of our natural charms, and if we are it's our own fault.

A Gorgeous Lake

ONE of the most beautiful lakes which this world holds is Lake George in eastern New York state. The Indians called it Andiatarocci—"Where the lake shuts itself in." Fa ther Jogues, a Jesuit missionary, who probably was the first white man to see it—1642, named it "The Lake of the Blessed Sacrament," but in 1755 this was changed to Lake George, in honor of King George II.

More properly it might be christened Surprise lake. It is so shut away from the world that one comes upon it with unexpected suddenness. The scene astonishes! One had not before realized that nature could take a body of water, sprinkle hundreds of little floating-garden-like islands about in it, forest its irregular shore line, and a background of protecting mountains and produce such an entrancing picture.

Located on the line of early-day exploration activities between Canada and New York this region naturally became a battle ground. The whoop of the savage and the boom of cannon have rolled across it. The ruins of ancient forts are mute reminders of the tragic struggles which occurred. An imposing shaft commemorates the Battle of Lake George—1755.

But to return to the picture, for sheer beauty this 30-mile-long lake rivals the waters of the world. "The visitor," as one writer aptly put it, "feels the gripping atmosphere of romance growing out of the military tragedies of nearly two centuries ago, and there is a natural beauty here that the world has not duplicated."

"Indian Summer"

COMMONLY speaking, Indian summer is a name which, through continuous usage, has become attached to a particular kind of weather—the most delightful type of autumn days—a warm, sunny period which follows a spell of unseasonably chilly weather which some folks term "Squaw Winter," when spider webs float in the air and a distant haze fog the view.

The origin of the term has been the subject of much discussion and appears to remain more or less unsettled. The belief is rather popular that this is a fixed season which recurs with regularity, but records of the weather do not prove that this belief is founded upon fact.

Periods of Indian summer may often appear repeatedly during the two or three months of autumn weather. In other words, there may be several Indian summers during one autumn.

In Europe it is somewhat commonly thought that the dates of the recurrence of Indian summer are more definitely fixed than is the case in this country, but the records of students of atmospheric phenomena may not substantiate this belief. It is, however, a matter of record that in parts of Europe this "after-summer" season often is associated with the names of saints, presumably because the weather usually is mild when these saints' days are observed, hence this period frequently is referred to as "St. Luke's Summer," "St. Michael's Summer," "All Saints' Summer," etc.

An Unmatched Panorama

FIRST Orange mountain, which the Indians named Watchung, in northern central New Jersey, near the Oranges, rises above the surrounding landscape its crest being perhaps a mile and a half long, half that wide, and some 500 feet above the tides of the sea. This mountain is included in the Essex county park system.

Although a mere upstart, in comparison with the majestic Rockies in our great West, the particular location of this mountain and the surrounding natural development coordinate in the formation of a scene, from the rocky ledge at the summit known as Eagle Rock, which has been famous ever since the days of the French explorer Cartier.

Eagle Rock long has been a public breathing spot, freely patronized by local folk. The contributions of man have been instrumental in attracting the great mass of population which centers around New York harbor and metropolitan New Jersey and here also amplified the unusualness of the view.

Today, the visitor looks off at a fascinating and expansive panorama, made up of a great cluster of lovely suburban communities spread across the intervening territory between the mountain and the sea, the greatest part in the world and the richest city on earth, the whole constituting a segment of the most important center in the universe. The guide book informs that "From Eagle Rock can be seen more homes and the workshops of more people than from any other natural elevation in the world."

John has been attending Bible school. Of course, one of the stories he learned was of Samson and Delilah. After mother brought him home from the barber shop the other afternoon he was romping with other children on the lawn. Suddenly he "flopped" on the grass and gave every simulation of complete exhaustion. A little girl playmate anxiously inquired the cause of the trouble. The answer was, "I've just come from the barber shop an' I lost my stren'th!"
